One Teacher in Ten in the New Millennium: LGBT Educators Speak Out About What's Gotten Better . . . and What Hasn't Kevin Jennings

Twenty completely new stories of negotiating the triumphs and challenges of being an LGBT educator in the twenty-first century

For more than twenty years, the One Teacher in Ten series has served as an invaluable source of strength and inspiration for lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender educators. This all-new edition brings together stories from across America—and around the world—resulting in a rich tapestry of varied experiences. From a teacher who feels he must remain closeted in the comparative safety of New York City public schools to teachers who are out in places as far afield as South Africa and China, the teachers and school administrators in One Teacher in Ten in the New Millennium prove that LGBT educators are as diverse and complex as humanity itself. Voices largely absent from the first two editions—including transgender people, people of color, teachers working in rural districts, and educators from outside the United States—feature prominently in this new collection, providing a fuller and deeper understanding of the triumphs and challenges of being an LGBT teacher today.

Eric Vegas:

As a scholar, I exactly feel bored in order to reading. If their teacher requested them to go to the library as well as to make a summary for some book, they are complained. Just very little students that have reading's spirit or real their interest. They just do what the teacher want, like asked to go to the library. They go to presently there but nothing reading very seriously. Any students feel that reading is not important, boring along with can't see colorful photographs on there. Yeah, it is to become complicated. Book is very important for you. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever you want. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country.
