This planet has practically no vegetation and so little water that a man left exposed on its surface will die of dehydration in minutes. Storms with super-hurricane velocity sweep the planet's surface, and giant sandworms who are often over a quarter mile in length devour anything that moves on the open sand. This is the planet which is the only source of melange, a spice which prevents human aging and makes possible the prescient navigation among the stars which is essential for the continued existence of the galaxy's far-flung civilization. Dune is the focal point in a power struggle among the galaxy's most powerful factions. Whoever controls Dune and its spice has the power to rule the universe."
