This story was originally published in Day One, a weekly literary journal dedicated to short fiction and poetry from emerging writers.

This small-town New Jersey teen is not the only one intrigued by Vince Rapoli. A revered Bloomington football coach, Vince is locally famous for seducing divorced mothers, marrying them, and then leaving after a year or so, once he tires of the relationship.

For the first five marriages, the high school freshman was happy to watch the drama from afar. But when the mother of his friend Scotty becomes engaged to Vince, the teen is forced to take a closer look. As the wedding day unfolds, he begins to reflect on the strange and hilarious community that seems to both disdain and idolize the groom—as well as the repercussions of his own parents' recent separation and the flimsiness of love.
