Unseen Cairns Ramon E. Bisque

Arriving in the Upper Peninsula in 1885, my great grandfather and his family saved for years to purchase land. When a missionary priest offered to assist them, they were overwhelmed by his consideration and confided in him. The priest took their savings in advance, bought three “forties” north of Iron River and sold them one of them to my great grandfather, making an obscene profit overnight. When the land later proved to have mineral potential, the priest was approached by local attorneys who suggested a scheme to reclaim the land.
